Clause 1: Aims of the Bachelor Stage

The education of the bachelor stage aims to graduate a doctor described by the ability to:

1. Apply the principles of diagnosis and treatment, with taking into consideration the circumstances of the Egyptian, the Arabian and the African societies.

2. Fulfill the requirements of protection from the diseases and to spread the health awareness and to deal with common diseases in the Egyptian, the Arabian and the African environments.

3. Deal with the cases of emergency, with being aware of the limits of the physician’s interference at the different levels.

4. Develop skills in the basic medical sciences and apply them in the clinic sciences.

5. Deal with the patients as a problem on the individual and family’s level and as a social phenomenon.

6. Use the basic medical and clinical sciences in understanding the reasons of the economical and social phenomenon.

7. Apply laboratory skills.

8. Pursue the scientific development.

9. Follow the medical ethics, as well as the human and social morals which guarantees the foundation of the human and civil sides in the relations between the profession and the society.

10. Participate in medical services.

11. Get benefits from the different knowledge resources.